

Pardes Learning Seminar

SUMMER 2021

Resilience & Courage

יָאִמְצֵחַ וְאִתְּוֵן

July 4–8, 2021 | Tuition: $1,400*

As Joshua accepts the mantle of leadership and the Jewish people prepare to inherit the Promised Land, Moses charges Joshua and the people to embody resilience and courage. These character traits are no less urgent for our leaders, and for us as individuals, as each of us strives to realize our own destiny today.

- What do we learn from the models that Torah and rabbinic Judaism provide us for resilience and courage in our lives and the lives of our communities?
- What is the leadership that we need most at this time? Is it for the people or the leaders to cultivate our collective resilience and courage?
- How can we encourage one another, as Moses did for Joshua, and help each other become our best selves?
- Are we adequately prepared to face future challenges?
- Do we have the courage to push forward with new ideas and new paradigms?
- How can Torah make us strong?
